Cyprus Problems

THE imposition of a state of emergency in Cyprus . announced by the nuthorities on Saturday -- is bound to jeopardise whatever chance there was of a political settlement with pro-Greece nationalists agitathig for self-determination. Few will deny the need for the stringent restrictions. Sporadic rioting isolated acts of terrorism have now flared into what some will be tempted to describe as "civil war", Yet many will regret that the problem of terrorism which is the consequence of frustrated but admittedly and implacable becomes more acute." And "So long as it reunsolved, neither mormality nor order can be established in Cyprus."

the United Nations Armistice

London, Nov. 28.

Under the heading "The Bear in India" the Daily Mail today asked whether Britain wanted Soviet Russia's two leaders to make their visit to this country in March.

"Do we really want them now?" this Conservative newspaper demanded, referring to the Russian Prime Minister, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, and Communist Party Secretary Mr Nikita Khrushchev.

"After the way they have been carrying on in India, the British people would prefer their room to their company."

The newspaper added that nobody expected good manners from the two men. "But one does look for some semblance of good form from two alleged top ranking statesmen." "One is entitled to ask, that
